FRIDAY, JANUARY 21, 1916.

An Evening Echo.

The great secret of happiness is to study to accommodate our own minds to things external, rather than to accommodate things external to ourselves.—Dugald Stewart.

"Americans have democratized the motor industry," exclaims the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Not yet, brother, but when the Democratic tax is put on gasoline you may be right.

It seems impossible to find a Republican who is not tainted in spots with one Wilson policy or another.—New York World. "Tainted" is the correct expression, if it be true, and 'taint'.

Representative Rainey's plan to place an additional tax on beer, which will be paid by the beer-drinkers of the country, is apt to foment discord.

Perhaps, after all the Democratic newspaper here tried to give veiled insult to the memory of the southern Confederacy, when it printed pictures of "Stonewall" Jackson and Villa, the Mexican rebel, on the same page.

It is estimated that American consumers of sugar paid $100,000,000 extra because of the increased price of that article during 1915. This is of interest in connection with the Democratic promise of reduced cost of living.

The Boston News Bureau says that during the week ended December 25, 1915, Detroit, Mich., exported commodities to the value of more than $4,000,000, which exports were exceeded only by New York City. The war in Europe has made many changes in our commercial affairs. Detroit is one of the large beneficiaries.

Mr. Wilson is evidently reserving his passion for a purpose. At any rate, he is using none of it to assist the passage of his preparedness program. When other measures in which he displayed interest have been before Congress he has lost no occasion to enforce his view upon party associates. Now he permits his plan to be called "idiotic" by one Democratic congressman, while others use milder language but all hostile and fatal to the proposal. Does the president really mean business? Is he for preparedness or not?

Clarksville is scarcely far enough south in location or sentiment to appreciate that astonishing attempt to rehabilitate the southern Confederacy more than fifty years after the "unpleasantness." Such things may go in some places but they are in bad taste here. Clarksville never was other than loyal to the country and flag and Clarksville, while quite appreciative of the fact that it produced a man of great military genius, does not take the view that that genius was righteously or patriotically applied.

Mistake Acknowledged.

When the federal reserve board, organized by a Democratic administration on partisan lines, performed its duty of establishing reserve banks, it located banks at Atlanta, Dallas and Richmond, ignoring the commercial claims of New Orleans and Baltimore.

In an effort to rectify the error and accommodate business, a branch bank was established at New Orleans. The latest report of the board says that the branch bank has "already justified its establishment," which is a partial acknowledgment that New Orleans should have been made a reserve bank city, rather than made the site of a branch bank.

Democracy for "Foreigners First."

Preaching "America First" and practicing "Foreigners First" is a policy that will embarrass the Democrats when they come to defend their record next fall. In the ten months of Democratic tariff rates preceding the outbreak of the war, our imports of meat and dairy products increased to $40,545,000, as compared with $12,460,000 in the corresponding ten months under the Republican tariff. Imports under Democratic policies were more than three times as great as under Republican policies. We gave the foreigner greater access to our markets, and yet the cost of living did not decrease.

The American farmer is forgetful of some things, but he will remember these figures when he makes up his mind how to vote next November. The figures are from official reports.

Similar Condition.

The first expression of Congressional opinion regarding foreign relations came rather unexpectedly in the Senate on the day after Congress reassembled. The debate turned upon a suggestion that Americans should not travel on ships which fly a belligerent flag and the most pointed remarks were those in criticism of the administration for not issuing a warning to this effect.

It was regarded as significant that, while six of the eleven senators who spoke defended the president, only two of the six were Democrats—Messrs. Robinson, of Arkansas, and Reed, of Missouri, neither of whom has ever been classed as a real leader in the Senate or in the party.

Experienced Washington commentators find conditions now to be much as they were in the last days of Cleveland's second term—the strong men of the Democracy hostile or indifferent to the White House and none but the "cuckoos" of place-hunters doing reverence to the president.

Democracy and "the Masses"

Congressman Stephens, Democrat, of Texas, must have a strange constituency, if his remarks in the house of representatives, recently, are a fair sample of what appeals to them. "The Republicans favor the masses; the Democrats favor the masses," he said.

Does Mr. Stephens forget that the Democratic tariff legislation threw 4,000,000 of the "masses" out of employment in 1913-1914?

Does Mr. Stephens forget that it was Republican constructive legislation that restored prosperity after the Cleveland administration?

Does Mr. Stephens forget that the Republican party passed the postal savings bank bill with the opposition of the banks and with every vote against it cast by a Democrat. Will Mr. Stephens tell how he voted on that measure?

Does Mr. Stephens forget that Republicans passed the pure food bill to protect the masses, the parcel post bill for the convenience of the masses and the reclamation law for the creation of new homes for the masses?

Will Mr. Stephens advocate the repeal of these measures passed by Republican congresses?

Wilson, Huerta and the Constitution.

"In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial—and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him," etc.

These are the words of the Sixth amendment of federal constitution, one of the earliest amendments adopted and one of that group of amendments which were proposed in order to perfect the instrument by providing enlarged securities for the individual exposed to governmental action. To "preserve, protect, and defend" the constitution is the chief oath which the president takes.

Last July—the fourth of July we think it was—President Wilson caused Victoriano Huerta to be arrested in Texas. He was there confined, not in a jail, but in a fort, where he has remained without a speedy trial, the exact accusation or the producing of witnesses which the constitution provides.

This old Indian may be of no great consequence, as matters now stand, to Woodrow Wilson or to the people of the United States; but the federal constitution is a matter of huge importance.

THE DAILY NOVELET

PIEDWICK AND ETHELDA.

He had just returned from the horse show.

"Love, tell me!" he pleaded. She answered, "Boo-hoo."

Oh, boo-hoo, boo-hoo, I can't help thinking, dear.

"Boo-hoo, you are really too good to be true!"

It was the second Tuesday of the first month of their married life.

He had just returned from the hard, horrid office and now they were facing each other across their cozy, wozey little dining table in the dining room, tastefully furnished in the style of Oscar II.

"Piedwick," she pouted, "you have not said a word about the dinner I cooked for you with my own weeny own hand, you haven't you haven't."

"My love!" he cried, the light of an inexpressible admiration shining from all his eyes. "I never tasted such a magnolious, scrumptious, absolute—"

It will cut your feeding costs and increase your profits. We sell it under a guarantee to give satisfaction when fed to dairy cows or we will take it off your hands and refund your money.

ly very good Eddy dinner in my life. I never even smelt one. My angel, the man who could be insensible to these incomparably prepared viands and foodstuffs would be a dog, an ingrate, a traitor and a boob—

He suddenly threw on the check rein.

Etheldita was crying!

"You only love me for my cooking!" she sobbed.

And to show his absolute neutrality, he had to slam his face down in his spaghetti, and she came over and picked the pieces off and all was serene for eight minutes.

It now looks as if we will have to return to our "wallowing in the mud" again, as our recent freeze-up is being succeeded by a down pour of rain, and the immense amount of heavy freight yet piled up here to be hauled to the gas and oil fields will leave the roads almost bottomless if thoroughly thawed out.
